Dear Colleagues!

Russia-China relations have long been rooted in a spirit of good-neighbourliness and mutually beneficial cooperation. Consequently, bilateral trade continues to expand, cooperation is deepening, and new investment projects are moving forward.

Over the past five years, mutual foreign direct investment between our two countries has more than doubled. This growth is a clear reflection of the trust at the heart of our partnership and of its long-term nature.

Much of this investment momentum has been generated through the work of the Russia–China Intergovernmental Commission. At present, nearly 90 major joint projects, with a combined value of $200 billion, are being implemented under this framework in such sectors as gas chemicals, mining, agriculture, automotive manufacturing, household appliance production, transport, and logistics.

We are confident that the potential is even greater. Today, the Russian economy offers substantial opportunities for investment and partnership. Large-scale changes are underway, with major development projects being advanced in infrastructure, industry, exports, technology, artificial intelligence, science, the welfare sector, and the urban environment. These efforts enjoy strong state support and are open to the participation of foreign partners.

The Ministry of Economic Development of the Russian Federation has prepared the Russia-China Investment Cooperation Guidebook. In essence, it is as a practical guide for Chinese investors, bringing together the investment opportunities of all Russian regions, priority areas for project development, available investment sites and related infrastructure, together with guidance on engagement with public authorities. The Guidebook also outlines the full range of federal and regional state support measures designed to promote and safeguard investment, while ensuring stable and predictable conditions for business activity.

I am confident that the Guidebook will serve as an important instrument for further strengthening the partnership between our two countries. I wish Chinese entrepreneurs in Russia every success in making sound investment decisions and in the effective implementation of their projects.

Minister of Economic Development of the Russian Federation,
Vice-Chairperson of the Russian Side of the Russia-China Intergovernmental Commission of Investment Cooperation
Maxim G. Reshetnikov

Dear colleagues and entrepreneurs,

Today, Russia-China relations are going through the best period in their history. The economies of the two countries are complementary and have an enormous growth potential.

Adhering to the principles of mutual respect, equality, and mutual benefit, China always encourages and supports the investment and business development of competitive and reliable Chinese enterprises in Russia and welcomes investments by Russian companies in China. China and Russia have already achieved significant results by partnering in traditional areas such as energy, transportation, agriculture, and the aerospace industry. The future will also offer broad opportunities for cooperation in the development of new economic areas such as artificial intelligence, the digital economy, and "green" development. This is why the preparation of the Russia-China Investment Cooperation Guidebook could not have come at a better moment.

The Guidebook analyzes the investment policy, business climate, and top-priority development sectors in the Russian Federation and its constituent entities, creating a convenient information platform for deepening practical cooperation between businesses in the two countries.

In the context of a revised Russia-China Investment Cooperation Plan being signed in August 2024 and a new Agreement between the Government of the Russian Federation and the Government of the People's Republic of China on the Promotion and Reciprocal Protection of Investments coming into force in December 2025, the creation of the Guidebook is a practical measure designed to promote, deepen and strengthen the development of investment cooperation between the two countries, and fully demonstrates Russia's positive attitude towards attracting Chinese investments.

Russia, with its vast territory and rich resources, is characterized by significant differentiation by region. Hopefully, the Guidebook will help Chinese investors gain a comprehensive and objective understanding of the Russian market environment, effectively exploit emerging opportunities for cooperation, and ensure stable and sustainable investment development. At the same time, we expect Russia to continue optimizing its business conditions and to create a more stable, fair, transparent, and predictable favorable environment for investors from around the world, including Chinese companies.

Please allow me to express my gratitude to the China Council for the Promotion of International Trade (CCPIT) and Chinese enterprises that actively contributed to the preparation of the Guidebook!

I wish Chinese entrepreneurs success when investing in Russia! May Russia-China investment and economic cooperation continue to remain fruitful!

Ambassador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary of the People's Republic of China to the Russian Federation
Zhang Hanhui

Can seeds be imported into Russia for agro-industrial projects?

Seeds are classified as regulated quarantine products. The importation of seed material is carried out by submitting an application from the foreign trade participant to commence shipments of quarantine-regulated products for use in sowing and planting from a foreign state where quarantine pests (harmful organisms) characteristic of such regulated products have been identified as being present.

all regions territory	import restrictions apply

Regulations

- Regulations on the Procedure for Carrying Out Quarantine Phytosanitary Supervision at the Customs Border of the EAEU, approved by Resolution of the Customs Union Commission No. 318 dated 18 June 2010 "On Ensuring Plant Quarantine in the EAEU"
- Federal Law No. 206-FZ dated 21 July 2014 "On Plant Quarantine"
- Federal Law No. 454-FZ dated 30 December 2021 "On Seed Production"

Requirements

Federal state control is carried out in respect of seeds imported into the Russian Federation. Importation is permitted provided that:

- the seeds are accompanied by documents containing information on varietal characteristics and sowing (planting) quality indicators;
- the seeds comply with the requirements established pursuant to Part 2 of Article 13 of Federal Law No. 454-FZ;
- for seeds included in the List of genera and species of agricultural plants whose production and cultivation are aimed at ensuring Russia's food security (approved by Order of the Government of the Russian Federation No. 3835-r dated 8 December 2022), documents containing information on varietal characteristics and sowing (planting) quality indicators are required, issued by laboratories of foreign states whose competence has been confirmed following a preliminary audit by Rosselkhoznadzor;
- the seeds comply with the Unified Quarantine Phytosanitary Requirements applicable to regulated products and regulated objects at the customs border and within the customs territory of the EAEU, approved by Decisions of the EEC Council dated 30 November 2016 No. 157 and No. 159;
